Amiya and IIJ Global Solutions Singapore form Business Alliance in Singapore Introducing ALog ConVerter to the Singapore Market

Amiya Corporation (Tokyo, Japan; Seiichi Ito, CEO) and IIJ Global Solutions Singapore Pte. Ltd. (Singapore; Osamu Ono, Managing Director) announced a formal agreement for IIJ Global Solutions Singapore to sell and support Amiya’s ALog ConVerter, a server access log management tool in the Singapore market.

Amiya Corporation is the inventor of ALog ConVerter, a server access log management tool that plays a vital role in corporate data security and risk management in Japan and the rest of Asia. This time, Amiya chose IIJ Global Solutions Singapore as the company’s partner in Singapore where there is an increasing demand for security in the market, recognizing IIJ Global Solutions Singapore’s strong sales channel and technical support capabilities that will contribute to ALog ConVerter growth.

ALog ConVerter is the standard among server access log management programs, awarded the Gold Prize in the Info Security Products Global Excellence Awards 2013, Products and Solutions for Asia-Pacific categories. More importantly, ALog ConVerter has been adopted by more than 2,600 corporations around the world, highly regarded for its effectiveness and ease of operation.

Says Osamu Ono, Managing Director of IIJ Global Solutions Singapore, "With the launch of AEC, Singapore has become the focal point for Japanese companies in Asia. Therefore, security management is an important aspect for all companies in Singapore. In Japan, AMIYA is the leading provider in the server access log management market. Together with AMIYA, IIJ is now able to provide enhanced security solutions to Japanese companies. With over 8 years of experience in Singapore, IIJ also has the strength to open up Non-Japanese market in the region."

Seiichi Ito, CEO of Amiya Corporation, adds, “We believe this partnership with IIJ Global Solutions Singapore that has strong sales channels and technical strength will open up more sales channels for ALog ConVerter in Singapore where there is an increasing demand for security in the market. We expect Singapore’s decision-makers to embrace ALog ConVerter with the same kind of reception this software has received in Japan. We look forward to offering Singapore enterprises and Japanese enterprises which have Singapore branches our solutions that increase their security environment.

What is ALog ConVerter?

Released originally in September 2005, ALog ConVerter is an agentless (non-resident program) access log management tool. ALog ConVerter takes a server event log and looks for file access, domain logins, and other activity, providing all-in-one proprietary analysis and file compression for long-term storage. It realizes low cost and efficient log management as ALog ConVerter collects log data from the server side where the vital data is stored. ALog ConVerter has been adopted by more than 2,600 corporations
